

This lesson was interesting to me since it made me aware that there are multiple ways you can make it so that some code could run independently of the main code.