I found this lesson to be fairly easy, but also very interesting, as it is the first time I have written code that sends the output to an external device such as the Phidget.