There was a problem within the test code that prevented it from functioning properly, the object declaration was set up in a way that the statements that used the object couldn't access it.(Unfortunately no screenshots were taken for evidence) The problem was rectified and simplified with my teachers help.